Uncle Sam and the Maine Law.

WASHINGTON, October 30.—As the Treasury Department does not desire to interfere in any way with the state law prohibiting the sale of liquors in Maine, Acting Secretary Spaulding today instructed the collector of customs at Bangor, that certain gin and brandy, recently imported and now remaining in his custody, are not to be sold as unclaimed merchandise, but are to be held until further orders. The liquor will be sold in some other state.

In the 6,000,000 letters that reached the Dead Letter Office last year there was money amounting to $28,642 and checks and notes of the value of $1,471,871.

TARS UNDER ARMS.

They Will Land in Valparaiso Prepared for Battle.

Captain Schley Anxious for Peace But Ready for War.

Trouble Imminent if This Report from Chili Is True.

SANTIAGO DE CHILI, October 30.—It is generally admitted here both by the supporters of the government and the Americans and those in sympathy with them, that the situation of affairs as regards the dispute between the United States and Chili has not improved. Anti-American feeling is growing in bitterness and all the American officials in Chili are apprehensive that further trouble is brewing. The exact nature of this trouble they are unable to define, but they see little prospect that an amicable settlement of the Valparaiso incident will soon be reached. The signs of increasing popular animosity toward the United States give ground for apprehension. From all one can hear today, the relation between the Junta and the United States government are dangerously strained.

United States Minister Egan, Capt. W. S. Schley of the Baltimore, and William B. McCreery, United States consul at Valparaiso, were in close consultation throughout the day. It is not possible to obtain any definite statement from them for publication regarding their deliberations but it can be said that they all consider the reply of the Junta to Minister Egan's note asking for a proper explanation of the Valparaiso collision, as decidedly insulting to the United States government. It is known that they regard the situation at present as serious. The reply of the Junta, they think, means practically that Chili is indignant at the demands made by the United States government and that she will take her own time to consider the matter. When the Junta reaches a conclusion that government will settle the matter without reference to the views of the United States on the subject. The reply of the Junta, they further say, fails to express any regret for the murder of the Baltimore's men nor in that document is there any expression of regret at the conduct of the police in using their bayonets in arresting the men. Several of the latter were more or less severely wounded by bayonet thrusts.

While the United States officials here are indignant at the tone of the reply of the Junta, their indignation is as nothing to that felt by American residents in Chili. The latter are looking for more serious trouble, possibly in the near future, between Chili and the United States. It is believed today that the United States cruiser Baltimore has prepared to enforce, if necessary, proper treatment for her officers and sailors who may be compelled by the necessities of the service to go ashore. Everything possible will be done by the Baltimore's commander to avoid trouble, but for marketing, provisioning and watering, the interchange of messages between her commander and the United States minister, and other duties, men and officers have to go ashore. As the virtual boycott placed upon the Baltimore continues, Captain Schley, if necessary, will send armed men ashore and take other steps to ensure their protection.

It has just become known that there is another feature of the Valparaiso outrage which demands explanation. The municipal and government officers at Valparaiso who investigated the attack upon the sailors compelled the United States men-of-warsmen confined in the prison to sign a statement, written in Spanish, exonerating everyone from responsibility as to their arrest. These papers had to be signed by the blue jackets as one of the conditions of their release. Another point not serving to allay the ill feeling is the fact that no courtesy of any kind was shown the United States naval officers or men upon the occasion of the burial of Turnbull, the second man of the Baltimore's crew who died from injuries received during the attack upon the blue jackets.

LOOKS VERY UGLY.

Senator Cullom Thinks "Sassy" Chilians Should Be Punished.

WASHINGTON, October 30.—Senator Edmunds called on the Secretary of the Navy today. In response to an inquiry, the Senator said that he had not followed the Chilian affair and was not sufficiently conversant with the case to express an opinion as to the present situation. He was sure this government would be fair and just and would do the right thing in the right way.

Senator Cullom, after an interview with Secretary Tracy, said: "The situation looks very ugly. Those little chaps down there are very 'sassy.' I think we shall be obliged to give them a lesson. If they do not change their tactics at once, the only thing for us is to send warships down there and give them the mischief."

CALL IT A TUMULT.

The Junta Say Their Investigation Began Promptly.

WASHINGTON, October 30.—Senor Pedro Montt, official representative of the Chilian government in Washington, has received the following despatch from the Chilian minister of foreign affairs:

SANTIAGO, Chili, October 30.

Investigation was instituted immediately, and continues with all diligence, but is not yet finished. The trouble began in Clave street, and became a tumult at 7 p. m. The regular soldiers, police and special guard of the intendente restored order. Of the combatants, 30 Americans and 11 Chilians were committed before the judicial authorities. They fought with knives, stones and everything they could lay their hands upon. One was killed and several wounded. It is estimated that 160 American sailors from the Baltimore were on shore at the time of the tumult.

SOME GOOD SHIPS.

Modern Vessels Over Which Fly Chilian Colors.

NEW YORK, October 30.—The news from Chili has set the officers at the navy yard talking about the naval strength of that country. The Chilian navy consists of three battle ships, three armored cruisers, two torpedo cruisers, five corvettes, one despatch boat, five gunboats and thirteen torpedo boats; but owing to all the recent troubles it is more than probable that not even their best ships are in efficient fighting condition, but are in need of crews and ammunition.

The finest vessel they have is the Captain Prat. She is 6,000 tons, and has a coat of armor 12 inches thick on her. She carries four 24-centimetre breech loading rifles, and eight 12-centimetre breech loading rifles. Other formidable vessels are to be found in the Almirante Cochrane and Encalada, two vessels that together fought and captured the demon Huascar, and the sister ships Presidente Pinto and Presidente Errazuriz. Another member of the fleet is the Esmeralda, the cruiser which prowled northward during the late hostilities, to meet the runaway Itata. The Chilians have had a great deal of active experience in modern naval warfare, and have the reputation of being brave and skillful sailors.

The officers at the yard are much incensed at the news that the intendente of Valparaiso had refused to guarantee the safety of market boats coming ashore early in the morning from the Baltimore or the safety of officers coming ashore at night from that vessel. "This is a pretty state of things," said one. "In a supposed friendly port a practical boycott is placed on our ship, and officers can go ashore only at the risk of their lives after dark. I don't believe the government will stand this sort of thing. I believe more ships will be ordered to Chili and a firm stand taken." In speaking of the Esmeralda, he said: "She is more nearly like the Charleston than like any other of our ships; in fact, she is almost exactly similar. She has a heavier armament, however, having replaced her 8-inch guns with 10-inch ones. She was built to make 18 knots an hour, and did not make it, but now she can only make 11 or 12, do the best she can. The Miantonomoh can make 11 knots and with her heavy armor might lie in the middle of the Chilian fleet, and send every one of them to the bottom without being harmed. The Esmeralda has a good outfit of torpedoes, which our ships have not, but their torpedoes are much uncertain things that the use of them is a sort of lottery—there are more blanks than prizes. The government has just bought fifty torpedoes for the new ships, and we might try them against the Chilians by way of experiment. What a place Valparaiso would be to bombard. It is strung along the water front, so that its buildings would afford the best target practice in the world. Of course I hope we won't have war, but if you could realize how naval officers and men have been treated for years by the Chilians you would believe that it would not be hard for the navy to reconcile itself to a little war with those people."

The feasibility of sending the Miantonomoh to Chili was not for a moment doubted by any of the officers spoken with. They cited the case of the monitor Monadnock, which went to the West Coast unharmed, and of the former Miantonomoh, which made a trip to Europe.

"In case of actual hostilities with Chili," a naval officer said yesterday, "we should be under great disadvantage on the coal question. A ship bound from the east coast around to the Pacific would have to be accompanied by a collier, and would have to take coal from it at sea, a difficult operation, though I believe it could be done in good weather. As it is now, our ships bound from here to Chili coal first after leaving New York either at St. Thomas, a Danish port, or at St. Lucia, an English fortified coaling station. Then they take coal again at Bahia, a Brazilian port, and, in the case of some of them, again at Rio Janeiro, or at Montevideo."

THE CHILIANS' DELUSION.

They Believe that English Guns Would Answer for Them.

NEW YORK, October 30.—A Washington despatch to the Herald says:

One of the reasons of the bellicose attitude of the Chilians is hinted at in a letter received today by a naval officer from a comrade on the Baltimore. This letter states that the Chilians are counting, in case of trouble, upon the support of Great Britain against the United States. They have no warrant for this in any intimation from the British government or any declarations of the representatives of Great Britain in Chili, but they base their hope upon the large English interests in Chili and the relative sympathy the English have shown to the popular party during the recent civil war.

The Chilians believe that the English would come to their assistance in order to protect the nitrate beds, in which English capital is heavily invested. They apparently imagine that the opening of American guns on the defences of Valparaiso would be the signal for a counter fire from English ironclads. The extent to which this idea has taken possession of the Chilians is shown by a recent episode at Santiago, the inland capital of the country. Some leading Chilians arranged a dinner party at the capital and carried the English officers up there on a special train. In the course of the meal, after the Chilians had been warmed to the fighting point, one of them proposed a toast couched in the most slurring language toward the United States. It was so insolent in tone that the English officers flatly refused to drink it, but their courtesy does not seem to have undeceived the Chilians in the belief that they will have English guns behind them if they see fit to insult the United States. They are evidently counting upon some such support in their bravado, and it is this which has led them to reply to Minister Egan of Chili in a note which one of the cabinet tersely summed up for me today when I asked him what interpretation he put on it by saying, "It simply means that we may go to the devil."

The London Authorities.

LONDON, October 30.—The Times, referring to the Chilian affair, regards the American deliverances as tall talk intended to influence the coming elections, and says that after Tuesday a settlement will probably be found satisfactory to both parties.

The Times today publishes a letter signed "An American," which asserts that the attitude of the United States in regard to Chili is entirely due to the approaching elections in several American states.

The evening newspapers comment at length upon the strained relations existing between the United States and Chili.

The St. James Gazette remarks "that whether President Harrison's rising indignation, or Mr. Blaine's electioneering calculations will result in war is doubtful."

A Possible Explanation.

LONDON, October 30.—A despatch from Valparaiso says the secret of the Junta's refusal to give satisfaction to the American government is that the members of the Junta and their associates in command are divided on the question of the presidency, and each faction is afraid to make enemies by seeming to yield to American demands, and that after election there will probably be a change for the better in the situation. This cheerful view is not generally accepted, however, by those having Chilian interests, although it is believed that rivalry for the Chilian presidency will prevent bitterness among the chiefs of the revolution.

The Yorktown at Bahia, Brazil.

WASHINGTON, October 30.—The Navy Department has received a telegram announcing the arrival of the Yorktown at Bahia, Brazil. She will stop there for coal and then proceed to Chili, where she was ordered several weeks ago.

THE WEATHER.

Fair Until Sunday.

Following is the forecast of the weather for New England: Fair until Sunday; slightly warmer; southwesterly winds. Cautionary signals are displayed on the Atlantic coast from New York city to Boston section, except storm signals at Sandy Hook, Narragansett section and Wood's Holl section.

Boston's Guess.

BOSTON, October 30.—The storm central in the northwest Friday will probably move slowly northeastward across Canada during Saturday and Sunday, preceded by unusually warm weather, followed by much cooler. The indications for Saturday for New England are fair, five to ten degrees warmer than on Friday, southwesterly winds. The weather for Sunday is somewhat uncertain at present. Fair and continued warmer are indicated, followed by cooler and rain on Monday.

WAS IT THE SCHOONER URUGUAY?

The Vessel Which Went to the Bottom Off Matinicus.

United States Steamer Fern in Collision with a Tramp.

The Wreck of the Moselle—Other Marine News.

[Special to the PRESS.]

HALIFAX, October 30.—Capt. Chute of the schooner Seraphine at Boston on October 27, reported seeing an unknown four-masted schooner founder with all hands off Matinicus last Saturday. E. W. Dimock & Co., of Windsor, believe the ill-fated vessel was the Uruguay of Windsor, owned by them. She was 10 days out from Windsor for New York with a cargo of plaster. Edwin Slosson of New York was on board as a passenger, and the crew comprised Wm. Parsons, master; James Morris and Elias Cochrane, mates, all of Windsor, and R. Henry, Arch Hunter, Herbert Crew and four foreigners, seamen.

THE FERN'S ESCAPE.

A Government Steamer Struck by an English Tramp.

NORFALK, October 30.—Early this morning while the U. S. S. Fern was 10 miles off Thimble light, bound from the navy yard at Norfolk to New York, she collided with the English tramp steamer Iago, bound for Baltimore. One of the Fern's officers says the only light seen on the tramp was at the masthead. Whistles were exchanged, but the two vessels came together, the Fern being struck on the port quarter, smashing in the steering gear and captain's cabins. No damage was sustained below the water-line. The Fern needed no assistance and the English vessel continued on her course. The Fern, after temporarily repairing damages, put back here for repairs. The Fern was nearly turned over. If she had been struck direct blow on the side, she would have been cut in two. She will be docked at once for repairs.

The Wandering Jew in Trouble.

NEW YORK, October 30.—Ship Wandering Jew put into port today leaking badly. She left Boston on the 27th in tow of a tug for Philadelphia, en route to Hong Kong, and sprung a leak in a gale.

Moselle and Her Captain Lost.

PANAMA, October 30.—Steamer Avon left here yesterday for the scene of the disaster to the steamer Moselle and returned this morning. She reports the Moselle a total wreck. No trace of the captain could be found. It is supposed he has been drowned.

Signs of Shipwrecks.

LONDON, October 30.—A quantity of new deals is being thrown upon the shore at Wexford. It is supposed they are part of the cargo of some vessel which loaded at Quebec.

Adverse to the Ladies.

CHICAGO, October 30.—The supreme court of Illinois has decided adversely to the Chicago ladies in the woman suffrage case. At Ottawa today, a motion for leave to file a petition for mandamus to compel the election commissioners to register women's names was denied on the ground that the petition was uncertain and did not contain allegations sufficient to warrant the issuance of the writ as asked. The decision does not touch the question of the constitutionality of the recent state law.

MR. REED'S AKRON SPEECH UNFINISHED

He Had Just Begun When Illness Prevented Its Completion.

His Indisposition Probably the Result of Hard Campaigning.

A Week of Incessant Travel and Speechmaking.

AKRON, O., October 30.—Hon. Thomas B. Reed was unable to but partially fulfill his appointment at the Republican meeting in Akron tonight. After speaking a few minutes he was taken to the Empire House quite ill. Mr. Reed is closing a week of memorable campaigning, during which he has travelled from one end of the state to the other, addressing thousands of attentive and enthusiastic auditors. Throughout the week his reception has been most gratifying. He began at Ironton, in Laurense county, on the Ohio river on Monday. This is the extreme southern county of the state. The same day he spoke at Portsmouth, 40 miles northwest, the capital of Scioto county. Then he travelled northwest about 100 miles to Springfield, the capital of Clark county, in the interior of the state, not far from Columbus. On his way the train stopped a few minutes at Washington Court House, the capital of Fayette county. Hon. Mills Gardner introduced Mr. Reed to the assembled crowd, and the Maine statesman made a brief but red hot Republican speech. He said he was aware that Major McKinley would be elected, but urged the Republicans to make the majority so large that its effect would be felt everywhere.

At Springfield, on Tuesday, 5000 enthusiastic Republicans turned out, in spite of the chilly, raw weather, to hear him discuss the issues of the day at the Fair grounds. The grand rally was preceded by a parade, in which 600 men were in line. Speaker Reed, ex-Speaker Keifer and General Bushnell were drawn to the grounds in a carriage drawn by four white horses gally caparisoned. Speaker Reed was introduced amid the wildest enthusiasm by ex-Speaker Keifer. Mr. Reed made a speech of an hour's duration, his time being, however, limited to catch the train for Troy, where he was billed for the evening. He contrasted the prosperity of the country during the 30 years of Republican rule with the troublesome financial times under Democratic rule.

He pleaded amid the wildest demonstrations of approval to the Republicans of Ohio to stand by McKinley, a statesman of national renown, a majority that will leave no uncertain sound as to how Ohio stands on the great question of protection.

From Springfield Mr. Reed went about fifty miles west to Troy, the seat of Miami county. There the grand rally in the evening fairly exceeded expectations, and was a regular circus for the Republicans, being held in a large tent erected on the public square, and that tent jammed and packed full of people, as was the entire vicinity. About two hundred and fifty of the Garfield Club at Dayton, accompanied by a number more of Dayton people, arrived on a special train with a band, and also about one hundred and fifty people from Tippecanoe, with their band, and these, with a large delegation of Troy citizens, headed by the Troy band, formed a parade from the depot to the public square amid the display of fireworks. Later a large train-load of almost three hundred from Piqua, and almost as many more from Sidney, arrived. The celebrated Piqua Glee Club opened with a new song dedicated to the "Czar," which was received with sounds of applause. The speech of Mr. Reed was a strong and characteristic arraignment of Democracy, and he held his audience for over an hour in rapt attention and tumultuous applause at his sound logic and witty sallies.

Mr. Reed remained over night here, and departed on an early morning train. It was one of the grandest outpourings of the people ever held in this county to welcome and hear a man who is peculiarly a national character. Mr. Reed touched briefly and pointedly on the tariff, with a plain and convincing argument, and then aptly and humorously touched up the silver question as viewed by the Democracy of Massachusetts and New York. Throughout the week he paid a glowing tribute to McKinley, and regarded his election as a foregone conclusion.

From Troy, Mr. Reed's route lay about 50 miles east to Marysville, in Union county, where he spoke Wednesday, speaking at Delaware, in the adjoining county in the evening.

For Thursday he was advertised to speak at Bellevue, an hundred miles north, in Sandusky county, and in the evening at Toledo, 50 miles northwest, at the western extremity of Lake Erie, where he had a magnificent reception. Today he came to this city, two hundred miles east, the capital of Summit county. Unless his ill

THE PRESS.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 31.

We do not read annoymous letters and communications. The name and address of the writer are in all cases indispensible, not necessarily for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

We cannot undertake to retain or preserve communications that are not used.

The series of fights in Cork between the Parnellites and the anti-Parnellites will, it is to be feared, prove an object lesson which will not be likely to advance the cause of Homerule. The average Englishman as he reads of the affair will be likely to ask himself if the turning over of the management of their local affairs to a people who settle their political disagreements by breaking one another's heads is likely to promote the general welfare of the country and its people, and we fear that the answer that will come to him is not one that will make him an enthusiastic advocate of any such policy.

Our esteemed Boston contemporary, the Herald, was in a very melancholy mood a few days ago over an alleged increase in the price of oats. Of course the McKinley bill was at the bottom of it, and the poor teamster who, according to the Herald, was compelled to pay a dollar a week more for the board of his horse was invited to vote the Democratic ticket in protest against that bill and the disaster it was alleged to have brought upon him. But, yesterday, the Herald informed its readers that its sympathy for the poor truckman was entirely misplaced; that the alleged increase in the price of oats had not taken place, but, on the contrary, there had been a decrease of fourteen to fifteen cents cents a bushel; and that when it had asserted otherwise it had done so through misinformation. In short, the Herald made a very handsome apology to its readers for deceiving them. Now that it has got seated on the stool of repentance it is to be hoped that it will remain there until it has confessed all its sins and made ample atonement.

If the administration had taken the advice of the New York Tribune and recalled Minister Egan soon after the overthrow of Balmaceda, our present relations with Chili would have been much less strained than they now are. Through his own indiscretion, or through circumstances over which he had no control, Mr. Egan had come to be considered a strong partisan of the Balmaceda government, and when the Junta took possession of Santiago, it was very natural for them to view him with suspicion and to look upon his continuance there as the official representative of the United States as an affront. For much more trivial indiscretion than the Chilian people believed him guilty of we sent Sackville-West flying, and if Mr. Egan had been the Chilian minister to our government and we had believed him guilty of the gross partisanship which the Chilians allege against him, we should have sent him flying too. It is very little use to expect to promote cordial relations with a country through a minister who is cordially hated by that country. He may be the best man in the world, but if he does not enjoy the confidence and respect of the government to which he is accredited, he is sure to promote discord rather than harmony.

The Chilian Reply.

It is alleged that some of the phrases used by the Chilian government in its reply to the representations of Minister Egan in regard to the Valparaiso outrage are identical with some expressions in Secretary Blaine's letter to the Italian government after the New Orleans lynching. That may not prove to be the fact, but it is very certain that in substance the two replies are very much alike in the ground taken. It will be remembered that the Italian government first demanded the "punishment of the murderers," but subsequently modified it to a demand for their prosecution. To the demand in its first form the State department replied that our government could not guarantee the punishment of the alleged murderers even if it had jurisdiction over the case, inasmuch as it could not know that they would be convicted. To the demand in its modified form Secretary Blaine replied that if the Federal courts had jurisdiction the evidence in the case would be presented to the grand jury, but it, as seemed most probable, the affair was exclusively in the jurisdiction of the State of Louisiana, then the Federal government could do nothing about it. The reply of the Chilian government is not very different from this It says that the Valparaiso affair is being investigated by the Chilian tribunals according to the laws of that country. That in substance is saying that the evidence has been laid before the Chilian courts, as Mr. Blaine promised it should be laid before the Federal courts if they had jurisdiction. In fact the Chilians give us rather more satisfaction than we gave Italy. Our government said it would have a judicial investigation of the New Orleans lynching if it could, intimating at the time that the power was questionable. The Chilians say that an investigation is in progress. We really gave Italy no positive assurance whatever that the New Orleans case would ever be judicially investigated. The Chilians assure us that the Valparaiso case is being investigated. The fact is the offensiveness of the Chilian reply lies rather in its general tone than in any specific statement contained in it.

But the assumption of that tone, which is unmistakably one of insolence, is not attributable, we are inclined to think, to a deliberate purpose to bring on a conflict with the United States. The Spanish-Americans to the south of us are naturally a bumptious people given to swagger, and the heads of the Chilian junta have been swelled beyond their natural size, which is pretty large, by reason of their recent victory over Balmaceda. Furthermore the government has to show a good deal of deference to the feelings of the populace, which just now happens to be one of intense hatred to the United States, for the penalty of a serious disagreement between a South American government and its constituents is the prompt overthrow of the former, accompanied very likely with personal violence. The appearance of backing down before the Santiago populace would be likely to subject the junta to the treatment that our sailors received or even worse. It is difficult for Americans who live in a country where the people are law-abiding and where it never occurs to anybody to attempt to overthrow or punish the government except through the ballot box, to comprehend the danger to which a South American government exposes itself when it runs counter to the feelings of the populace. Had a South American government surrendered the emissaries of a nation with which they were at war, under the circumstances that we surrendered Mason and Slidell, it is probable that it would have been overthrown in twenty-four hours. Our people sustained the surrender because distasteful though it was their sober thought told them it was the right thing. In the average South American populace sober thought, if it comes at all, does not come until after the mischief has been done. The Spanish-American is very explosive.

CONCERNING BOOKS

BY E. CAVAZZA.

The Faith Doctor. By Edward Eggleston. In this novel of New York society Mr. Eggleston has been fortunate in finding as his theme a curious special phase of modern belief that permits to him its exploitation in a serious and also in a satirical vein. There is something pathetic, even noble, in the delusions of the pure and devoted souls that expect faith to work all sorts of physical miracles, and insist upon ignoring the materials of medicine and surgery, means which are appointed not less divinely to their beneficent end. Although Mr. Eggleston's fiction lacks artistic distinction, and the grace of the best society novel writing, he has chosen his types well and maintained his plot steadily. Phillida Callender, daughter of a missionary, brought up in an atmosphere of converston, with unworldly nature and unconventional training, is precisely the young woman to become a pure devotee of faith healing. The contrast between this high-minded girl and the coarse charlatanry of Eleanor Arabella Bowyer is well marked. The hero, Millard, rather improves on acquaintance; in the early chapters he comes too fresh from the hands of his tailor and hatter, and is even tainted with a certain vulgar pretentiousness. Later the author does him more justice. The story moves with vigorous freedom to its happy ending as a study of what Mr. Eggleston cleverly calls "aerial therapeutics"—mind-cure, faith-cure, etc.—it is a book worth the writing and the reading. (New York: D. Appleton & Co.; Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon. Price $1.50.)

The Albany Depot. By W. D. Howells. This is one of Mr. Howells's parlor farces, so comical in their realistic exhibition of the unreason of the average person. By some marvel of capture and tenacity, Mr. Howells's cleverness takes and detains those ephemeral idiocies, holding them up in varied lights for laughter. It is true that whatever is worth doing is worth doing well; it may be less certain that whatever is done well is—for that sole reason—worth doing. Even in the midst of amusement at the choicest imbecilities of Mr. Howells's people, it is impossible not to wish that analysis so thorough and representation so flexible and apt might be engaged in portraiture of types that one would be glad to know. The little Black and White Series of volumes—to which this comedy belongs—is a very dainty device of the publishers. (New York: Harper & Brothers; Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon. Price 50 cents.)

Edleen Vaughan. By Carmen Sylva. In reading such a romantic composition of the time-worn plots and situations of fiction as is this story, written by her majesty, the Queen of Roumania, one is aware that after all we owe very much to the realists, and should accept even the trivialities of the comedy people of Mr. Howells. Carmen Sylva's work shows sentiment, often tender and impassioned; but it is mixed with such a repertory of German sentimentalities and fancies; embodied in the conventional company of faithless lords, forsaken maidens, witches, bards with streaming hair; expressed in such romantic language that one finds difficulty in measuring the actual force and value of the talent of the royal authoress. She seems to live in a world of misty unrealities, through which an occasional ray of true sunshine is able to penetrate. The story of Edleen Vaughan is that of a mother, foolishly indulgent to a worthless son. He causes much misery, from which the final chapter is made to emerge, bearing with it some of the minor characters. (New York: Cassell Publishing Co.; Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon.)

Literary Landmarks of Edinburgh. By Laurence Hutton. The plan of this manual of the literary topography of Edinburgh is admirably ingenious and well executed. Mr. Hutton has taken great pains to trace and verify the buildings in that city which are connected with the personages whose names suggest themselves to the bookish pilgrims. He has strictly confined himself to his subject, not straying into any byways of biography, but guiding the reader through the streets of Edinburgh and pointing out every monument of the literary record of the city. The index gives a long list of famous names and noted localities. The illustrations really illustrate; the views of streets and narrow closes are especially interesting, while of the portraits some are more successfully executed than others. The refined appearance as well as the valuable contents of the book suit it to holiday requirements, which at present incline to books of lasting worth. (New York: Harper & Brothers; Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon. Price $1,00.)

The Lost Ring and Other Poems. By Caroline A. Mason. This book of verse, published as a memorial of its author, will be deservedly a favorite with readers who care for the sincere and spontaneous expression of feeling, wholesome, pious and cheerful, and of pleasing and varied fancy, often expressed in fortunate phrases. Mrs. Mason's poetry is delicate, full of trust and aspiration, not seldom attaining to genuine strength of expression. Among so many verses, there are naturally various degrees of merit, but to none need the name of poem be denied. The volume will appeal especially to New England readers, by its quiet and religious tonality. In citing an example of Mrs. Mason's verse it seems just now opportune to repeat a few lines of her plea for the dumb animals. The rights of man, the rights of woman—she has said—plead

These for themselves; but who shall speak for The poor, live creatures, with patient eyes, and feet that go and come
To do our bidding; toiling on without reward or fee,
Wearing their very lives away, poor things, for you and me!

Surely a poet can have no message nobler than to be a voice for the dumb! (Boston and New York: Houghton, Mifflin & Co.; Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon. Price $1.25.)

The Chase of the Meteor and Other Stories. By Edwin Lassete Bynner. One of the attractive holiday books for young people is this collection of stories, already contributed by Mr. Bynner to some of the best juvenile periodicals. Boys will follow with delight the wild chase of the runaway engine; rejoice with the little emigrant when he finds his forlorn dog; blush a little, remembering how they, like Hercules-Jack, have had their moments of grandiosity, and sympathize with the comical mishaps of Our Special Artist the young photographer, who could not persuade any number of negatives to make an affirmative of his skill. Mindful of the careless streak in the nature of even the good boys, Mr. Bynner has included in his story book a piratical but harmless tale of Black Beard's Last Struggle. Other stories maintain the amusing tone of the volume. The illustrations are good and the binding particularly tasteful. (Boston: Little, Brown & Co.; Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon. Price $1.25.)

The Electrical Boy. By John Trowbridge, Professor of Physics at Harvrad University. The title of this timely juvenile book is enough to make it one of the most popular of the holiday volumes. Boys will read it with intense interest from the first to the last page. Professor Trowbridge, a scientific authority, proves that he has not forgotten what boys like. His story, written in a style at once cultivated and simple, is as full of adventure as Oliver Optic could make it, and at the same time represents the authoritative science of a Harvard professor. The electrical boy is a street waif, who became a telegraph messenger, then after various apprenticeships to electricity and its uses, goes west. One of the most remarkable of the experiences of the young hero is the meeting with the Dime Museum giant in a mountain cave, where the lonely monster had hidden himself from curious and moneymaking men with a little squirrel as his house-mate in the great, glittering crystal hollow. Finally, rich and famous, the electrical boy grown a man returns to the city, to help poor newsboys to win, as he did, honest success in the world. (Boston: Roberts Brothers. Price: $1.50.

Mrs. Hicks—Dick has been a very bad boy today; you really ought to do something about it. Mr. Hicks—I guess I will try the faith cure on him.

Mrs. Hicks—What is that?

Mr. Hicks—Laying on of hands.—New York Herald.

Are free from all crude and irritating matter. Concentrated medicine only. Carter's Little Liver Pills. Very small; very easy to take; no pain; no griping; no purging. Try them.

Power of Will.

Expectant Nephew—How is my rich uncle today?

Family Doctor—Much better. His will keeps him alive.

Nephew (sadly)—I'm afraid that's so. He made his will in my favor twenty years ago, and I don't believe he'll die while that will is in existence.—Sreet & Smith's Good News.

I have not used all of one bottle yet. I suffered from catarrh for twelve years, experiencing the nauseating dropping in the throat peculiar to that disease, and nose bleed almost daily. I tried various remedies without benefit until last April, when I saw Ely's Cream Balm advertised in the Boston Budget. I procured a bottle, and since the first day's use have had no more bleeding—the soreness is entirely gone.—D. G. Davidson, with the Boston Budget, formerly with Boston Journal.

The Reason Why.

Clara—Charlie Jackson prefers blonde girls.

Laura—Why, I thought Charlie's brunette, you know, and he is very attentive to me.

Clara—Probably because your income is fair.—Munsey's Weekly.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT.

BEFORE JUDGE VIRGIN.

FRIDAY—John H. Oxnard, appellant from the decree of the judge of the court of insolvency, vs. James Adams, objecting creditor.

In the case of Alfred L. Oxnard, insolvent debtor, John H. offered proofs of claim on a note signed by Alfred, dated September 27, 1883, for $2,189.20, which claim was disallowed by the judge of the insolvent court, and John H. Oxnard appealed to this court.

It was claimed on the part of the creditors and Alfred Oxnard that the note was given to secure John H. against liability in certain equity proceedings and was without consideration. Verdict for plaintiff for full amount, with interest, $3665.

SUPERIOR COURT.

BEFORE JUDGE BONNEY.

FRIDAY—Martha C. Phinney vs. John H. Temm. Replevin for a horse of the value of $90. The defendant claims that he bought the horse of the plaintiff's husband and that the horse was delivered to him. The plaintiff says there was talk about a sale and Temm met Phinney on the road. Temm asked if he should take the horse. Phinney told him yes for $75 at the price talked. Temm said he would call and take the horse on his way home. Temm did call for the horse but didn't leave the money.

Nothing was said on either side about credit. Plaintiff claims it was a cash sale and as no money was left there was no sale or delivery.

The plaintiff called for his horse or money several times but couldn't get them, and thereupon he replevied them. Decree reserved.

J. C. & F. H. Cobb for plaintiff.
A. F. Moulton for defendant.

Rina F. Carey vs. Rebecca F. Emery.

This is an action of slander, with damages placed at $1000, growing out of a quarrel between two families, neighbors, in Gray. Mrs. Carey says she, with some other neighbors, was in the road in front of her house talking about her dog that had been poisoned. Mr. Emery, the defendant's husband, was near by in the field, and he thought Mrs. Carey was accusing him of poisoning the dog. Thereupon he and Mrs. Carey had some words. Mrs. Emery getting word of what was going on, and being full of life and rather fond of argument, came out and took a hand. Criminations and recriminations flew thick and fast, much of it not fit for ears of polite society, and it was during this war of words that the alleged slanderous words were spoken. Mrs. Carey says that Mrs. Emery accused her of trying to poison old Mrs. Carey, the plaintiff's mother-in-law, by putting poison in a blueberry pie and also in whiskey.

The defendant says she did not accuse her of attempting to poison the old lady. All she said was that old Mrs. Carey didn't dare to eat the pie or drink the whiskey for fear the plaintiff had put poison in them; and that Mrs. Carey was afraid of being poisoned she now maintains is true. The defendant's counsel on cross-examination drew out from all of the witnesses present when the alleged slanderous words were spoken the statement that they did not believe it and that they thought as much of the plaintiff afterwards as they did before. The decision was reserved.

W. H. Vinton appeared for the plaintiff, and M. P. Frank for the defendant.

BRIEF JOTTINGS.

Yesterday was a charming day, more like September than October.

Mr. Daniels has just finished mounting a doe's head for W. S. Eaton, of the Maine Central.

C. E. Whitney, carriage manufacturer, Portland, has offered his creditors 10 cents on the dollar.

There will be a talk on female physical culture at the Common Council room at 3 p. m. today.

Commencing next Monday the steamer Merryconeag will leave Portland Pier for Harpswell at 2.20 p. m. instead of 3.

A man named Casey was arrested yesterday on suspicion of theft of tools at the Diamond Wrench Company which has been going on for some time.

Deputy United States Marshal McNally arrived in the city yesterday, having in charge Miles Gibbons of Sherman, arrested for smuggling.

The Deputy Marshals seized two sugar barrels standing on Commercial street. When opened each contained a twenty gallon keg of whiskey.

The Christian Alliance will bring together many well known Christian workers from the several evangelical denominations. There will be a good opportunity to hear them tomorrow.

We have received from Benj. C. Stone, Grand Scribe, the journal of proceedings of the Grand Encampment of Odd Fellows at the annual session of 1891, neatly printed by Charles Paine in pamphlet form.

The International Steamship Company will commence its fall and winter arrangement on Monday next, and the steamers will leave here on Mondays and Thursdays for Eastport and St. John, and leave those ports returning on the same days.

Hon. S. S. Marble and Horace D. Marble, his brother, went to Dixfield Thursday night from Wilton, intending to strike into the woods yesterday in search of big game. The same night Mr. Chisholm's party stayed at the National House, so that there were two ex-governors of Maine under the roof at the same time, a coincidence not of frequent occurrence.

THE FILES WILL CONTEST.

The Parties Compromise and Withdraw the Case.

The case of the will of Martha A. Files, late of White Rock, was to have come before the Supeme Court yesterday on an appeal, but was compromised by the parties and withdrawn. This was the case in which two wills were presented in the Probate Court for probate, the earlier in favor of a nephew of the deceased and the later in favor of a brother. The later will was objected to on the ground that one of the attendants, being the husband of a legatee, was not legally competent. It was understood that other evidence would have been presented if necessary, as the later instrument was drawn during the last sickness of the deceased and four days before her death. The judge of probate heard the case in July and sustained the objection, disallowing the last will and approving and allowing the first. An appeal to the Supreme Court was taken from each decree, with the result before stated. Both appeals were dismissed, thus affirming the decree of the judge of probate and the first instrument stands as the last will and testament of the deceased. John H. Fogg, Esq., appeared for the appellant, and Hon. J. A. Waterman for the proponent.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

THE BOHEMIAN GIRL.

Last evening the Aborn Opera Company produced that old favorite "The Bohemian Girl," at Portland theatre to a very large audience. The opera was a little heavy for the troupe who are more at home in the later modern operas. Still, the quartette in the second act was very well given and gained an encore. The popular numbers, "I dreamt that I dwelt," "Then You'll Remember Me," "Heart Bowed Down," "Fair Land of Poland," besides the Gypsy Queen's song, were fairly sung, especially Mr. McSweeney's rendering of "The Heart Bowed Down." Miss Mamie Taylor, Miss Grace Vaughan, Messrs. Aborn, Nodine, McSweeney and Wooley assumed the principal roles. The chorus and orchestra were good and the ensemble that closes the second act quite effective.

This afternoon the beautiful opera of "Said Pasha" will be presented, and tonight a grand double bill, "Pinafore" and "Olivette," will close the company's season here.

THE KNEISEL CONCERTS.

There are only about a hundred seats left for the Kneisel subscription concerts and we urge all who have not subscribed and intend to do so to go to Stockbridge's and put down their names at once. The Boston Transcript, referring to the first concert by the quartette this season in Boston, thus spoke of their rendering of Mozart's quartette in C:

The performance of the whole quartette last evening was a noteworthy example of playing a classic composition with unexaggerated rhytomic freedom, with an elasticity in the matter of tempo that showed the composition in the strongest light, without destroying the unity of character in each movement.

A CURE FOR THE BLUES.

Speaking of "A Cure for the Blues," to be produced at Portland theatre next Monday and Tuesday, the Boston Globe says:

Never, perhaps, has such an enthusiastic audience been present at a first night in Providence as that which greeted the first performance of the farcical comedy, "A Cure for the Blues," this evening. The success of the piece is assured as long as the management care to run it. The comedy is funny in the extreme.

SIXTH ORGAN RECITAL

This will be the programme for the recita at Congress Squre church this afternoon at 3.30 o'clock:

Wedding March.....Mendelssohn

Song—"The Star of Bethlehem".....Adam

Largo.....Handel
Song—"O Rest in the Lord,".....from Elijah
Miss Peakes.
Consolation, (By request).....Liszt
Triumphal March.....Anon

W. J. RYAN'S CONCERT.

There should be a liberal patronage of the concert to be given by Mr. W. J. Ryan at Congress hall next Wednesday evening. Mr. Ryan has the misfortune to be blind, but he is exceedingly cheerful under his affliction, is active at his trade—that of chair buttoming—and very fond of music. He is a good cornet player and will be supported by excellent talent, as will be seen by the advertisement.

A REMINISCENCE.

Miss Annie Cowell, who takes one of the leading parts in the new play, "The Merchant," now running with such success in Boston and which will be seen in Portland in a few days—is one of the ladies of the stage who belongs to the palmy days of Jefferson and Florence and Mrs. John Dow. Her maiden name was Anna Cruise and she is the widow of Wm. Crowell, who was business manager for Barry Sullivan when the tragedian first visited America in 1846. She made a hit as Rosalind at the old National, New York in 1846. The writer remembers her as a beautiful woman in 1854 when she appeared in the "Naiad Queen," at Forbes's theatre in Providence, R. I. Frank Drew, brother of John Drew—whose wife, Mrs. John Drew, so delights our present audiences as Mrs. Malaprop—was the Schnapps of the piece and was as funny a comedian as his brother. Edward Varrey, who played here with Jefferson and Florence in "The Rivals," was the leading comedian of the theatre at the time. Miss Cowell, or Miss Cruise, which was her then stage name, mashed many of the young men at the time. One young fellow—he was quite young—was hard hit and wrote the actress a note, begging the honor of her acquaintance. In those days actresses didn't mingle as freely with the public as they do now. There was much more illusion and glamor thrown around the profession. The actress didn't answer the note, and so the youngster made bold to call at Earle's hotel where the lady was boarding. He sent up his card and waited in the parlor. In a few moments a gentleman came down—it was Frank Drew—and looking around the room and seeing only the stripling, walked up to him with an amused expression and asked if he was the sender of the card. The boy admitted that he was. "Well," said Mr. Drew, "the lady would doubtless enjoy knowing you if she was not in public life, but you see it wouldn't do under the circumstances. But don't take it to heart, my friend, for the lady is almost old enough to be your mother." The young man went off rather ruffled. The next night he attended the theatre and was satisfied in his mind that he had made a mistake. The lady was there, she was as beautiful as ever, but he realized that he had gone to work the wrong way and that it would be well to let a few more years pass over his head before he made the acquaintance of the heroines of mimic life.

NOT A HAPPY FAMILY.

It is said that the Campanini-DeVere troupe are not very happy together. Wlczek, the violinist's place on the programme, was changed so as to allow Campanini to appear first, and Wilczek declared he wouldn't play. Then Campanini and Mlle. DeVere had a squabble and didn't speak, and take it all in all, they were not a happy family.

NOTES.

The Players' Club will present Pygmalion and Galatea at City Hall, Thanksgiving afternoon and evening.

The New York World gives a sketch of the father of Miss Emma Pollock, the young actress who so pleased at the islands last summer. It seems he was a graduate of Trinity College, Dublin, came to this country and became a reporter on the Brooklyn Union. He became a strong friend of one of the police captains of that city. One day he accidentally discharged a gun which killed his friend. He never was able to get over the sad affair.

McNeill, the clothier, corner Middle and Temple streets, has got the finest assortment of Overcoats to be found in the city.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Rev. J. T. Clymer will give a talk to the young men at the Young Men's Christian Association rooms, Sunday afternoon, at half-past four o'clock. Subject, "Up to the Times." Every man in the city should be sure and come and hear what the speaker has to say about the subject. Strangers are always welcome.

The boys' branch of the Y. M. C. A. will meet this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Every member of the branch is requested to be present.

The Christian Alliance.

This will be the order of exercises for today and tomorrow:

Saturday at 7.30 p. m., also Sunday at 8.45 a. m., love feast.

Addresses by Rev. Dr. Simpson and others at 2.30 and 7.00 p. m.

Sunday, Rev. Dr. Simpson will preach in the Second Parish church at 10.30 a. m. and Mrs. E. M. Whittemore will speak in the evening. The Rev. Dr. Simpson will preach in State street church in the evening.

FAIR FOR DUMB ANIMALS.

The Characters in Living Whist and Mrs. Jarley's Wax Works.

The arrangements for the fair are nearly completed and promise a brilliant success. The public is eager to witness the game of Living Whist, with its skillful club men and animated cards, and the limited supply of tickets will be rapidly sold. The sale of reserved seats begins this (Saturday) morning at Chandler's music store. For the Living Whist, Wednesday and Friday evenings, places are to be had only in the balcony and upon the stage—the floor being occupied by the game itself. The price of seats in the front row of the balcony is $1, and other balcony and stage seats 50 cents. For the famous Jarley wax works, Thursday evening—which will be on the stage—all seats in the balcony or on the floor are sold at 50 cents. These prices are not inclusive of the admission tickets, which cost 25 cents each, or five for $1.

Supper will be served in the cafe Tuesday evening; during the successive days of the fair dinner will be ready from 12 to 2 o'clock and supper at 6; ice cream and cake at all hours of the afternoon and evening. The price of a dinner will be 35 cents and supper 25 cents. It is hoped that citizens and visitors will patronize the cafe generously.

A Life Saved

A Fireman's Story

Mr. Geo. Raymond, of Seneca Falls, N. Y., is a pump setter in the employ of Ramsay & Co., the well known pump makers of that place. He is a member of Ramsay Engine Co. He says:

"Seneca Falls, July 30, 1891.

"My wife without doubt owes her life to Hood's Sarsaparilla. A few years ago she was at death's door, due to blood poisoning, or as physicians say pyaemia. After everything else failed Hood's Sarsaparilla brought her out of the crisis all right. Since then she has suffered at times with numbness and headache, but continues taking and is gradually getting over these troubles. She clings to Hood's, takes nothing else, and we believe it will effect a complete cure."

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Judge Whittemore

Of St. Albans, Vt., cheerfully says in a good word for Hood's Sarsaparilla: "My wife's mother, an elderly lady, whenever run down or under the weather, takes it until it puts her in good condition again, which it invariably does in a short time. She thinks it absolutely essential to her existence, and will not allow herself to be out of

RAW AS BEEF-STEAK

Baby's Fearful Suffering from Skin Disease Covering Entire Body Cured by Cuticura.

My baby was taken very sick when he was three months old, and in a few days began breaking out. We employed both of the home doctors, and they could do nothing for him. Then we sent for the best doctor in Eaton Rapids, Mich., and he doctored him for two weeks, and he got worse all the time; and then I took him to Jackson, to a doctor who attends especially to skin diseases, and then he got worse than ever. Then I told my husband we had better try the CUTICURA REMEDIES any way; did not have any idea they would do any good, but in less than two months from the time we began giving them to him he was entirely well, and not a spot on him. His hair began growing right off, and we thought he would always be bald-headed. There was not a spot on his whole body, face, and head, only his nose and eyes, but what was as raw as beef-steak. So poor there was not anything but bones, and so weak he could raise neither hand nor head.

BLACK DRESS GOODS.

We have just received from a New York importing house, a large line of FINE BLACK DRESS GOODS with instructions to sell them at prices LOWER than we have ever before heard on same grade of goods.

The explanation is this:—When an importer reduces his stock of Dress Goods to one, two or three pieces of a style, they become as REMNANTS to him, the same as so many YARDS to the Retailer, and he is ready to close them out for CASH, at HALF PRICE or less.

This is WHY we can make such RIDICULOUSLY LOW PRICES as we now do. The lot contains about Fifty Pieces of ALL BLACK GOODS. No greys or mixtures, and will positively be sold at a loss of at least 50 CENTS ON A DOLLAR.

Sale begins Saturday morning and will continue three days or until goods are closed.

There are NO RESTRICTIONS as to this sale, only that we cannot duplicate any of the styles.

All prices for this sale are marked in RED FIGURES.
